SHALL WE WIN?

It remains entirely for the democrats of this district whether Mr. Grant is to be re-elected or a democratic representative sent to the next congress. If every voter in our party does his duty from now until the polls close in November the district will be re-deemed and the present incumbent relegated to the quietude of private life, where he can, in some umbrageous retreat, ruminate upon the uncertainty of all things political.

It therefore behooves each and every democrat in the district, who sincerely desires the success of our candidate at the approaching election, to go to work at once to secure "a consumation so devoutly to be wished," and work from now on until November with the same energy and persistent zeal which characterized the voters in New York and Massachusetts when they wrested from the republican party, two "supposedly" rock-bound districts and changed the normal republican majority of, fifteen thousand in each to a democratic majority of some seven or eight thousand, making a gain of about twenty-two thousand votes.

We can by persistent effort achieve a similar result in this district if the democrats do their simple duty.

The next representative from this district must, and will be a democrat.

The democratic precinct meeting and primaries will be held in every county in the State on Saturday, June 25, and every democrat should use his best endeavor to get the strongest and most available men nominated for the offices, from Supreme Court Justice down to township constable. Let personal preferences be put aside and party success become the first and only consideration in reaching a conclusion. After all, it is a question of whether principle shall predominate or man's ambition be gratified.

A number of State papers have recently declared that Hon. Locke Craig is their choice for governor two years hence—eastern papers, too. That's right and we still adhere to the opinion that Mr. Craig will be nominated by acclamation, as he should be.

The Hustler, while not addicted to repetition, earnestly desires to impress upon the Democrats of the Tenth District the necessity of thorough organization, to combat the strenuous efforts which our political adversaries are making to re-elect Mr. Grant to congress. If they succeed the democrats will be to blame. The fight is already won if we only keep our eyes open to the situation.

MR. FOSS' MAIDEN SPEECH

Mr. Eugene N. Foss, the recently elected Democratic representative from one of the strongest republican congressional district in Massachusetts—a former Republican, and one of the largest manufacturers in that State, made his maiden speech in congress a few days ago. Mr. Foss signalized his entrance upon active work by attacking, in a very lucid and thorough argument, that colossal iniquity now known as the Payne-Aldrich tariff law, and his speech has been warmly commended by the press both North and South. The distinguished gentleman did not hesitate to handle the republican party without gloves, referring to the present policy of protection as a gigantic fraud, an unmitigated evil, and denounced its advocates in a manner highly satisfactory to his political confederates, to his constituents, and to the country at large, by his denunciation of the present tariff—which he characterized as "a deliberate bunco measure from start to finish." Mr. Foss further declared himself to be in favor of reciprocity, and earnestly advocated an extra session of a new congress, at the earliest possible date, to revise the tariff along honest and business-like lines. At times Mr. Foss became facetious,—at the expense of the "regulars," and alluding to the protection given by the present law, said, "that—while the people are, indeed, demanding protection, the relief they are demanding is protection from the Payne-Aldrich tariff."

It was, indeed, a great speech—clear, cogent and convincing, well arranged and happily delivered, and will do much towards bringing about the election of a Democratic President in 1912.

We advise all the people, and especially our republican friends, to read carefully this masterly effort of Mr. Foss. He is a valuable convert to that great democratic slogan "equal rights to all, and special privileges to none." It is men like Foss, of Massachusetts, and Aldridge, of New York—only recently elected—who are going to contribute to most towards making the next House democratic and the democratic nominee in 1912 president of these United States.

President Taft, and his wife, Ex-President Roosevelt, King George, of England, President Diaz, of Mexico and W. J. Bryan were made life members of the World's Sunday School Association, at its recent session. The honor of life-membership cost each one of the distinguished recipients $1000, which was subscribed by admiring friends.

That good roads meeting at Bat Cave last Saturday indicates a determination upon the part of the people of Buncombe, Henderson and Rutherford to build jointly, the proposed highway from Charlotte to Knoxville. Well, a beginning must be made somewhere and Bat Cave folks are to be congratulated upon starting the ball in motion. Next will be the Spartanburg—Hendersonville—Asheville and the Greenville—Hendersonville—Asheville lines, in the construction of which our people generally are so much interested. We had hoped these proposed highways would be completed in time for the summer travel.

The Cumberland Presbyterians at Dickson, Tenn, some days ago denounced legalized saloons as "the most gigantic evil of the nation," and advocated the entire elimination of the liquor traffic in the United States.

The North Carolina Press Association convenes in annual session at Wrightsville Beach on Tuesday of next week. The North Carolina Good Roads Association meets at the same place on Thursday, June 9. A joint session of the two associations will be held during the week. A number of editors and good roads enthusiasts are booked for addresses upon various topics and the weeks doings in Wrightsville promise to be interesting and instructive. When the editors get their heads together upon a proposition they usually bring things to pass, and all of them want better roads.
